YACHT CRUISER BURNED TO THE WATER'S EDGE.

FIRE STARTED FROM CLEANING
THE IGNITER WITH GASOLINE
—WAS OWNED BY J. R. KING.

The yacht, Cruiser, belonging to J. R. King, was totally destroyed by fire Monday evening about seven o'clock. The fire alarm was sounded from the electric light plant and immediately a crowd was pouring southward on Beach and other streets leading to the vicinity of the Halifax River Yacht Club, near which the fire seemed located, although many at first thought it to be McDonald's Boat Yard.

The blaze proved to be upon J. R. King's boat, the Cruiser, which was at anchor not far from the club house. It seems that Mr. King and his colored man, Garney Hunt, were aboard the Cruiser and were cleaning the igniter, using gasoline for the purpose. Mr. King evidently failed to wait a sufficient time for the entire evaporation of the fluid and when he made the test of the circuit, the spark ignited the gasoline and the flames at once spread beneath the flooring, where there appeared to be an accumulation of gas.

Mr. King tried to put out the fire with an extinguisher, and did gain temporary control of it, but it soon broke out afresh and the heat and the smoke drove both himself and Hunt from the boat to his launch, which was alongside.

The Grant Ferris, J. B. Moore's boat, which was moored nearby, and Major A. B. Foster's yacht, Duchess, which was tied at the Club House wharf, were at once removed to safer quarters, although the light wind was carrying the smoke and sparks away from the building.

A hose reel had been brought to the scene but for some reason no attempt was made to use it, the boat probably being beyond reach. Several hundred people gathered at points of vantage to witness the weird spectacle.

It was fully half an hour before the fire reached the gasoline storage tank which was indicated by a great volume of dense black smoke though but little noise.

Mr. King and his man approached the Cruiser in the launch and fired into the row boat still tied to her, in an effort to sink it, but finally succeeded in cutting it loose and thus saving it. Later an attempt was made to tow the Cruiser nearer the shore. The fire lasted about an hour and the boat was burned to the water line. A lighted lantern remained suspended from a metal frame work at her stern. The Cruiser was well known here, having been built by A. M. Pellett and sold by him to Mr. King season before last. She was forty one feet in length by eight foot beam and was fitted with a ten horse power Globe engine.

Mr. King was carrying $2000 insurance on the Cruiser, in the Fireman's Friend, placed with the Bingham & Thompson agency.

PEACE CONFERENCE SET FOR SATURDAY MORNING.

REPRESENTATIVES OF GENERAL
ESTRADA AND PRESIDENT MADRIZ WILL MEET AT MANAGUA.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Dec. 28—An early peace conference between representatives of Estrada and President Madriz is confidently expected today, and the end of the revolution hoped for immediately. Estrada's favorable reply to Madriz' overtures is expected as Admiral Kimball's friendly call on Madriz yesterday indicates to Estrada that the United States is satisfied with the present Nicaraguan regime and will not assist further in the revolution. Madriz is ready to announce peace declarations as soon as Estrada complies.

BLUEFIELDS, Nicaragua, Dec. 28—A joint conference between representatives of Madriz and the revolutionists has been fixed for Saturday. Peace terms are to be discussed. Peace is believed to be a matter of only a few days.

STRANGLER PATIENTS TO GET MONEY FOR ABSINTHE.

KEEPER OF FRENCH FEEBLE MINDED KILLED PATIENTS TO GET TWENTY CENTS FOR CAR-ING FOR BODIES.

PARIS, Dec. 28—Whenever Leon Thabuis, keeper of the feeble minded ward in an asylum, wanted to drink absinthe he strangled one of the patients to death and received 20 cents as a regular fee for caring for the body. With this fee he bought absinthe, according to the police theory. Thabuis is on trial today. Dozens of victims have been examined and found to have been strangled. The death rate has been one every other day for two weeks.

VIRGINIA STILL STANDS BY ROBERT E. LEE.

IF MARBLE STATUE OF HIM IS REMOVED, SO WILL BE THE ONE OF WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—Virginia will stand by the statue of Robert E. Lee as it stood by the man. If the marble figure recently placed in the Statuary Hall of the capitol is required to be withdrawn the State will, according to those in authority, withdraw her statue of Washington. Opposition by former Union soldiers has caused congress to postpone its vote on the acceptance of the statue.

C. S. Heffner, who was severely burned recently while extinguishing the fire in the Hankins drug store window, is improving satisfactorily, although his recovery is necessarily slow.

THE NORTH COVERED WITH MANTEL OF SNOW.

Dispatches from New York on Monday say that a blizzard tied up traffic in many Eastern States. Many persons met death, five in Philadelphia and a dozen in New York, while the fatalities in New England have not been reported. In Philadelphia all business is practically at a standstill. The city is suffering from a shortage of milk.

Washington City did not suffer severely, but on account of traffic conditions in the North President Taft decided to postpone his engagement to speak in New York.

The storm in New England was worse in Bedford, Providence, Fall River, Pawtucket and Woodstock. In New York City seven thousand men are cleaning the streets. Surface lines are blocked as a result of heavy traffic in the subway.

LATEST PHOTO OF QUEEN WILHELMINA AND THE BABY PRINCESS JULIANA

Here is the latest photograph of Queen Wilhelmina and the baby princess Juliana, affectionately called "the hope of Holland." The picture was taken when the little princess was six months old. She is an exceedingly robust child and has never known what it is to be ill. Her royal mother also is in good health, being much healthier than she was a few years ago. The little princess' first name, Juliana, was given to her in memory of Countess Juliana of Nassau, wife of Prince Frederick Henry and mother of the two branches of the house of Orange-Nassau. Her name Louise recalls Louise de Coligny, wife of William the Silent. The names Emma, Marie and Wilhelmina are those of her grandmother and her mother.

LITTLE DAMAGE FROM LOW TEMPERATURE SUNDAY NIGHT

The low temperature of Sunday night appears to have caused little damage beyond that to the handsome foliage plants throughout the city, and in some cases even these escaped or were saved by being covered.

Some of the vegetable growers and even the citrus people at first thought they were badly hurt, but later reports indicate that the damage to vegetables was very slight and the oranges evidently escaped entirely, except perhaps in some very exposed places.

The frosting of the ivy plants, palms, and tropical plants like the banana is to be expected, but considering the frightful weather through out the north, there is no real cause for complaint here.

RED FLAG SHOUTERS OF KANSAS CONVENTION

ATLENE, Kas., Dec. 28—Members of the Kansas Anarchists' Association assembled in annual session at the Commercial Club in this city today and were called to order by President C. M. Crews. The business of the meeting will continue over tomorrow.

FORTY-SECOND SESSION ACADEMY OF SCIENCE

RUTHLESS DESTRUCTION OF BEAUTIFUL HOLLY TREES.

RESIDENTS OF HOLLY HILL IN-CENSED AT THE VANDALISM
DISPLAYED BY PARTIES SEEK-ING HOLLY FOR CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS.

The neighboring town of Holly Hill was almost devastated of holly last week to furnish Christmas decorations for public and private places in this city and the residents of that town, which derived its name from the abundant growth of this beautiful tree, are very thoroughly aroused over the wanton destruction occasioned by these Christmas vandals.

There seems to be the utmost disregard for the property rights and handsome trees which have been years in developing are ruthlessly felled by the ax to more easily secure the berry-covered branches and this is done both upon the public streets and on private property, whether under fence or without fence. In any case it is a punishable offense and the people of Holly Hill propose to make an example of the first guilty parties they can get hold of.

This raiding of the place for holly at Christmas time is a growing evil and if not checked will result in the destruction of the trees and the derivation of name be commemorated only by the seal of the town which is a sprig of holly leaves and berries.

There is a town ordinance covering this matter and it is proposed next season to put on special police to enforce it.

$10,000 AS PRIZES IN IOWA POULTRY EXHIBIT

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 28 — The eighteenth annual show of the Iowa State Poultry association opened here today in the Coliseum. Several thousand birds, prize winners from all parts of the west, are on exhibition, and the judges say the quality has never been equaled in the Iowa shows. Premiums to the value of about $10,000 will be distributed among the winners. The judging of exhibits is in charge of W. C. Allison, of Minneapolis; V. G. Warner, of Bloomfield; W. S. Russell, of Ottumwa, and O. L. McCord, of Danville.

FOUND WILD TURKEYS AND BAGGED THREE AT ONE SHOT

D. C. Clifton, of Holly Hill, while out hunting in the hammock west of that town Christmas Day, discovered a flock of five wild turkeys and succeeded in knocking over three birds at one shot.

One of the remaining birds took shelter in a tree directly above him, but he was so interested in securing those he had already shot that he did not see it until it took flight and escaped.

For many years a turkey pen has been maintained at Holly Hill.

SAY, DID YOU HEAR THE TOY FIRE WHISTLE

The Daily News. But you may not have noticed the last evening, a number of small whistles, and I know it is not.

It seems that the city council has ordered an alarm that can be heard when people are away at home. The whistle is a very small whistle, and it is to be used for the same purpose as the fire whistle.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28—Miss Ethel Roosevelt acted as bridesmaid at the wedding of her cousin, Miss Christine K. Roosevelt, whose husband is Lieut. James Edgar Rhodes, of the United States Army, took place today in the Church of St. John and St. Timothy. The bride is well known in society in New York and Washington, where she spent much time during the last administration, not only at the White House, but with her uncle, Senator Keith, of New Jersey.

AX REBOUNDED FROM WIRE AND CUT CASH OVER EYE.

J. A. Clement met with a painful and what nearly proved a very serious accident Saturday afternoon at his home on Magnolia avenue.

Mr. Clement was using an ax to cut some small bush in the yard and not noticing a wire line stretched overhead, brought the ax down upon it with some force, and in rebounding from the wire the head of the implement broke through the brim of his derby hat and inflicted an ugly gash just above his left eye and bruised and discolored the flesh surrounding the optic. The physician who dressed the wound congratulated him upon his narrow escape from a very serious injury.

J. B. BIVENS DIES AT BOWLING GREEN

W. M. Hankins has received the sad news of the death of J. B. Bivens last Friday, at the home of his sister, in Bowling Green, Fla., of tuberculosis. The death of his brother, Shap, is daily expected of the same dread disease.

Both young men were well known in Daytona, Jimmy Bivens having been for some time in the employ of Mr. Hankins at the Atwood Pharmacy and was quite popular among the young people of the city, while his brother had been seen at the club.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. H. White returned Monday night from Dupont where they had been visiting with U. S. White and family since Saturday.

NEW SMYRNA is situated fifteen miles south of Daytona and is an ideal spot reached from Daytona by a hard surface road winding through one of the most picturesque parts of Florida.

With its ancient ruins dating back to a time when the history of man runneth not, interlaced with wires of the modern telegraph and telephone, its miles of shell streets as hard and smooth as a floor and over-arched by hoary forest giants that grew in state-ly grandeur during the lapse of by-gone centuries, New Smyrna is truly a place of romance and rest.

All nature here is very inviting to the tourist and pleasure-seeker. Here too is to be found the best fishing and hunting in the State of Florida.

The people are thrifty, the business men enterprising, and all unite in extending the welcome hand of hospitality to strangers. There are five fine church edifices for white people and an equal number for the colored population; the town has an excellent high school, a splendid public library, and up-to-date business houses.

There are any number of pretty homes for the permanent population, which numbers close to 2,000, and some very fine winter residences. There are good hotels and boarding houses where you can find accommodations to meet your requirements.

Adjoining New Smyrna is as fine a section of vegetable land as can be found anywhere. This land has been divided into small farms which can be bought at reasonable prices. Some of the finest celery grown in the State is raised on this land. All other vegetables grow in abundance, and here, too, is the home of the famous Indian River oranges.

New Smyrna has no bonded indebtedness and the tax levy is low.

A point that no tourist should fail to visit is the ruins of the Old Spanish Mission which stand somber and alone about one and a quarter miles southwest of New Smyrna. A good road leads to the place and the trip can be easily made by an automobile.

Silent, in the great pine flats by the margin of the forest, is this place of pilgrimage for the pious; this rendezvous for the picnicker. The ruins are extensive, and while there is no authentic history of their origin, it is presumed that the Mission was built by the Franciscans in the days when the once powerful Kingdom of Spain first planted its flag upon what is now American soil. It was built of coquina, the roof being of the same material, cut into thin slabs and covered with cement plaster. Extensive gardens surrounded it, which were enclosed by a stone wall, portions of which still remain. Visitors usually come in parties merry and curious but the spell of the place soon falls upon them and they separate to sit alone, silent and meditative, under the arches or beside the ancient well.

CORONADO

Is situated on the peninsula opposite New Smyrna and is connected by a good road and bridge over the deep current of Indian River. Here you can put aside your conventional garb, breathe in large and deep the salty tonic of the sea and enjoy yourself to your heart's content with rod and reel in row or sail boat or in the ocean surf a short half-mile away. The great varieties of fish inhabiting the river and lagoon pass through the channel from the sea beneath the bridge. From verandas, upper balconies and windows you behold the magnificent river, the distant lagoons and islands, the forest-covered peninsula and the vast reaches of the Atlantic Ocean.

HAWKS PARK

A pretty village located along the ridge above the Indian River two and one-half miles south of New Smyrna and connected with fine shell roads. There is the appearance of newness, comfort and seclusion about the place which stamps it as the abode of people who come here to enjoy the blessings of outdoor life away from places where crowds are apt to gather.

ORMOND is five miles north of Daytona, located on the western bank of the Halifax River. The location of the town permits of good drainage and perfect sanitation; the elevation is superb and ideal for winter homes. A wide bridge connects Ormond with Ormond Beach. Many fine residences are maintained on either side of the river, most of them embellished with sub-tropical flora and shrubbery, besides thrifty orange and other citrus fruit trees.

The town is very cosmopolitan, has an excellent graded school, several churches, a fine public library, up-to-date places of business and comfortable and convenient hotels and boarding houses.

Ormond has many of the Florida attractions—fine fishing, good bathing, excellent auto-motoring, safe boating, salubrious climate and pleasant walks and drives.

At Ormond Beach is located the large Hotel Ormond, and its lesser sister, Bretton Inn. The former occupies a position overlooking the Halifax River, while the latter has as its outlook the magnificent beach and the broad Atlantic.

The walks in all directions are particularly attractive, and the arboreal study and inviting spots and romantic banks are crowded with native plants which are mute invitations to enter into the enjoyment of them.

Besides the broad, smooth ocean beach there are many drives for carriage or automobile—long drives and short drives; drives through groves of golden oranges; drives through dense tropical forests to Spanish ruins; drives to the ancient Causeway built by the aborigines of long ago, and drives to the plantations of hospitable settlers, whose places are replete with the interest of Southern fruits and flowers.

One of these interesting plantations is Number Nine, located on the peninsula, five miles north of the Hotel Ormond. Here you see a fine orange grove, together with great varieties of other sub-tropical fruits and flowers.

Five miles further on you come to Moondrove, one of the finest orange groves in this section of Florida. Moondrove is on the headwaters of the Halifax River and is amid pretty surroundings. The place is reached by a good road (passing Number Nine) and is a drive all tourists may enjoy.

PICTURESQUE PORT ORANGE

PORT ORANGE is a pretty little village situated five miles south of Daytona on the Daytona-New Smyrna hard-surface road, the scenic highway of the East Coast. The town is located on the Halifax River, over which spans a bridge from the town to the peninsula opposite.

The town is well laid out and has many pretty homes owned and occupied by residents and winter tourists. It has several churches, one of the best graded schools in Volusia county, two general stores, a real estate agency and two or three hotels.

A large number of tourists and winter residents make Port Orange winter headquarters, one of the several attractions being the excellent fishing. Port Orange is in the orange belt and a number of very fine citrus groves are nearby, where oranges, tangerines and grape-fruit hang in profusion. Some of the best trucking land in the State is to be found thereabout and excellent crops are raised.

West of Port Orange a short distance are the remains of the old Dunlawton sugar mill, a spot that is visited every year by hundreds of tourists. At one time all the country west of Port Orange, surrounding the old mill, was a vast sugar-cane and indigo plantation. The mill was operated extensively in those days but has been in disuse for thirty or forty years.

A pretty automobile or carriage drive from Daytona is via the ocean beach to the approach of the Port Orange bridge, across the bridge and then passing through Port Orange to the ruins of the celebrated old sugar mill, returning to Daytona by the road on the mainland. This drive affords a very pleasing variety of scenery.

DELAND, the county seat of Volusia County, is situated 23 miles southwest of Daytona and is reached from the latter city by an excellent hard-surface road recently constructed.

At Deland is located the John B. Stetson University, one of the leading educational institutions of the South. Because of the interest in matters educational Deland is known as "The Athens of Florida."

Stetson University has a faculty of 50 professors and instructors. There are over $400,000 in buildings and equipment; nearly $300,000 endowment; a Carnegie Library alone representing an investment in building, endowment and books, of more than $120,000. The library is the United States Government depository for the State of Florida, and contains over 15,000 volumes. Science Hall, one of the newest of 16 buildings, with its furnishings, represents an outlay of $60,000. Elizabeth Hall is one of the most beautiful college buildings in the South.

The city has a population of about 3,500, with a thickly settled country adjacent. Deland proper is five miles east of the St. Johns River, on the high, rolling pine land of the great "Orange Ridge" of Florida.

The predominant products are oranges and grape fruit, the estimated crop from this vicinity being over 300,000 boxes this year. Grape, peaches, pears, Japan persimmons, plums, pecans, guavas, strawberries and other fruits are grown in plenty.

In the way of public improvements are many miles of fine shell roads, an excellent high school, electric lights, a system of waterworks that is owned and operated by the city, supplying the purest water at little cost.

Nine houses of worship testify that Deland is a church-going community. Baptists, Episcopalians, Methodists (Northern and Southern), Presbyterians, Christians and Catholics, besides colored Baptists and Methodists, are represented.

The graded school offers a ten years' course, and the building which it occupies is newly furnished throughout, and is one of the most commodious and best equipped public schools in the State.

The trip from Daytona to Deland is made by automobile in a little over an hour, and there are many pretty drives in the vicinity of the county site. A good road leads to Deland Springs, five miles, a historic spot, where 60,000 gallons of water bubble from the earth every minute.

From Deland automobiles go south to Osteen, 18 miles, on shell and marl roads; the St. Johns is crossed by ferry near Osteen and cars can then continue to Sanford and Orlando by hard road. There is a shell road from Deland to Orange City, five miles, and a good road from Deland to Lake Helen, a like distance.

A large lumber mill and the largest brick plant in the South are located at Lake Helen.

ORANGE CITY
The principal attraction around Orange City is the many handsome golden orange groves. The town is supplied with water said to be the purest in the world, another attraction to visitors. It is at Orange City that passengers over the Florida East Coast Ry. transfer to carriages and drive to Deland. The town is surrounded by land peculiarly adapted to the cultivation of citrus fruits.

NEWS OF THE HOTELS

Lawrence Haynes, of Jacksonville, was in the city yesterday, registered at The Despland.

Miss Wolfert and Miss Nichols, of New York, arrived Monday afternoon and are guests at the Despland.

Mrs. M. A. Greene, nephew, H. F. Woolley and wife, of Ocean Grove, N. J., who have spent some time at The Magnolia and The Austin, left this afternoon for West Palm Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Peoples, of Atlanta, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Whitlock, of Somerville, N. J., and Mrs. B. A. Blackburn and brother, Walter West, of New York, are among the recent arrivals at the Ridgewood.

TO JOIN SEVERAL NEW JERSEY CITIES.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28--It is likely that the project to create another metropolis over in Jersey will hit a snag tonight when the votes cast by the sovereign voters of Weehawken are counted. It is proposed to consolidate Weehawken, North Bergen, Union Hill, West Hoboken, West New York and Guttenburg into one municipality, under the name of Hudson City. All of the other towns apparently favor the proposition, but the Weehawkenites are firm against it, and local prophets assert that the project will be defeated 4 to 1 in today's election. Weehawken already has all the modern improvements but some of the other towns are not so fortunate, and it is feared that the Hudson City merger would result in a considerable increase in taxes for improving the streets and sewers.

Grandpa's Bear

The Bear Treed Him Inside the Trunk Instead of Outside.

By ELEANOR B. GARDNER.

Copyright, 1930, by American Press Association.

"Grandpa Colonel, tell us a story."
"Well, well! Suppose I tell you about a bear."

"Sixty or more years ago, in the days when California was only poor, faroff Mexican California and nothing more and I was a very young officer in Uncle Sam's little army, I once found myself stationed at a certain inland town. It was a collection of adobe or mud huts deserved the name, situated about sixty miles distant from the then scarcely larger village of Yerba Buena, the now mighty city of San Francisco.

"We were doing garrison duty, a single company under old Captain Jack B., an easy going commander, who gave us little to do and plenty of time to do it in.

"So, as the hours hung somewhat heavily upon our hands, Captain Jack and I—the only officers at the post—took to hunting and shooting, with now and then a little fishing by way of change to vary the monotony of our soldier life. Countless flocks of wild geese, brant and lesser waterfowl came by thousands to banquet upon the wild oat fields and make their reedy homes among the wide marshes which separate the firmer land about Sonoma from the spreading bays that terminate in the Golden Gate.

"We had goose for dinner, brant for breakfast and cold duck for supper and lunch till old Jack declared his belief that he should quack if we ate any more such fare.

"One morning I had been very successful at duck shooting, and when I tired of the sport I proceeded to shoulder my piece and secure my game for the homeward tramp of three or four miles.

"As I lost sight of the shooting grounds and began to enter the live oak groves scattered here and there along the higher ridges bordering the marshy edges of the bay I found myself suddenly enveloped in one of those dense mists which sweep up at certain seasons from the sea, like the ocean vapors of a Newport summer afternoon.

"As I had no special path and was travelling only by familiar landmarks, now rendered indistinct by the hoary haze, I was obliged to move more slowly and soon felt satisfied that I had missed my way.

"Reaching at length a space open upon three sides, the fourth being thinly wooded, but without a particle of undergrowth, I paused for a moment to survey, so far as my limited horizon would permit, a tract of country which was new to me. Moreover, I hoped to hear the sound of running water, which, as I knew the general direction of the streams, would serve to guide me in taking what sailors call a fresh departure.

"While listening intently I heard from the wooded side of my narrow, visible world a sort of pounding, as if some man with large boots and no corns had found his feet unpleasantly cold and was endeavoring to warm them by stamping in a manner which betokened an utter disregard for shoe leather.

"Then came a wheeze like that of a gruff giant troubled with the asthma and finally a mixed compound of crunching and mumbling, as if a huge hog were eating hard corn. My attention now being thoroughly aroused by so remarkable a combination of sounds, I peered into the gloom until I fancied I could perceive the vague, misty form of some creature stirring up the fog within twenty feet of the spot on which I had halted.

"It is—no, it can't be—yes, but it is a grizzly! Don't I wish I was at home! That's what I thought. You see, I hadn't come bear hunting. I was duck shooting and had no convenience for carrying home a bear even if I should kill one, and the more I looked at Mr. Grizzly the better satisfied I was that he had every convenience for killing and carrying me.

"All I had ever heard or read of his ugly, hateful ways seemed to rush into my mind.

"If I had been examined on this subject in natural history just then I should have gone up to the head of my class immediately.

"We stood looking at each other. It was evidently a surprise on both sides. I stared very hard at the bear with wide open eyes, while the bear stared very hard at me with wide open mouth.

"I think the bear got over his astonishment first, and, what is worst, I could see he wasn't at all alarmed. He stopped eating, gave a sniff and a sort of interrogatory 'Who are you?' grunt and then took a step toward me.

"As I am of a retiring disposition and have never been willing to intrude myself into company where I have not been invited, I felt some delicacy in continuing to be a witness of his repast and was accordingly withdrawing in as unostentatious a way as good manners would permit, when it seemed to occur to him that he owed it to good fellowship to cultivate my acquaintance.

"Declining that honor, I dropped into a backward walk, keeping my face, after the manner of royal presentations, toward this monarch of the western wilds, when, to my horror, he favored me with a grin—such a grin!—and it was followed by a snap and a growl.

"As he quickened his steps toward me I unconsciously hastened my own, when, taking a long stride backward, I found myself suddenly prostrate in a sort of dry ditch or slough, where I lay for a moment half stunned in company with my dead birds and duck gun.

"As I recovered myself I could hear my grunting and grumbling friend, doubtless not a little astonished at this sudden disappearance, go tramping up and down in the vain attempt to nose me out in the fog.

"I had now time to think and, as a merchant might say, 'take stock' of my position and prospects. On the one side I was chased by a bear—a hungry bear, a cross bear, a bear disturbed at his breakfast of sweet acorns. I had lost my way. I had only a ducking gun, which, however formidable to wild geese, was a mere plaything when brought to bear upon the thick, tough hide of an acorn fattened grizzly, whose gross weight might be somewhere in the neighborhood of 900 pounds. As for my hunting knife, I had left it at home. What wonder if, as an Irishman might say, I wished that I had left myself there before I started?

"Against all this I had the consolatory assurance that the grizzly bear never climbs, which, as the trees were all on the side of the bear, did not add much to my sense of security. But my principal hope lay in the fact that I was just then hidden by the gully, the depth of which varied from eight to twelve feet, with precipitous sides and a dry bed, which probably led down to some neighboring stream of water.

"Now, thought I, 'I have only to crawl along this ditch, reach the stream, cross it and bid goodby to grizzly!'

"I had just picked myself up and was proceeding to carry out my plan of escape when I heard a crackling and breaking of the underbrush which fringed the ditch and by which I was partly screened from view. This was speedily followed by an angry growl as the treacherous earth gave way and let Mr. Bear with no gentle tumble directly down into the very gully into which I had fallen.

"Fortunately for me, bruin had not only a greater fall, but tumbled into the ditch at a point somewhat distant from my hiding place, and the little ferret eyes did not at once perceive me. An unlucky stumble, however, which I owed to a twisted root, betrayed me, and he turned and gave chase.

"They have a very expressive phrase in California when a person is desired to leave suddenly. It consists of but two words, 'You git!' My dears, when that bear tumbled into my gully 'I got,' and when he took up the chase I continued 'to git' in a style which astonished even myself.

"When I first saw him fall I certainly hoped that he had broken his nose at least or even dislocated his great ugly neck, but that hope vanished in a moment.

"He was evidently not a whit the worse for his somersault.

"It was no longer a matter of ceremony. I sped over the ground like a hunted deer, while my stout friend came lumbering and puffing on behind, like a portly old gentleman who fears he may be too late for the evening train. I was expecting every moment to feel the blow of his heavy paw, when, turning an angle of the gully, I perceived, with no little dismay, that the ditch in front of me was blocked by an immense fallen tree. The smaller end of the broken trunk, being toward me, showed an opening wide enough to admit my then somewhat more than usually slender form.

"There was little time for hesitation. I could hear the bear's heavy tramp behind me. A moment more and I had plunged into the opening and drew my gun after me, just as my fat friend rounded the turn of the slough in hot pursuit. Running blindly on, he endeavored to force himself after me, giving the log a shock which made me tremble for the security of my new tenement.

"One or two furious plunges tended to convince him that I could enter where his large frame could not, for he seemed to reflect and finally withdrew a paw, from which a faint glimmer of light issued, and I retired into the inner recesses of my chamber.

"Finding that his attempts in this way were equally futile, I began to feel a little more at ease, and when bruin again poked in his great paw in an inquiring sort of way I managed to push a dead duck out to him with the butt of my gun by way of a peace offering. I was willing just then to have peace at any price short of surrender.

"But Sir Bear had no thought of such a compromise. He tore away and made the feathers fly with his cruel teeth and claws in a style which gave me a pretty lively notion of what I might expect were I to trust myself within their grasp.

"I had begun to think seriously of giving my pursuer the benefit of a charge of duck shot in the hope of putting out one or both of his ugly little eyes and making him give up the hunt when, my eyes becoming accustomed to the darkness, I discovered a faint indication of light behind me. I crawled toward it and dropped out backward.

"The creek was below me, and I dropped into it in a moment and pushed, apparently unheard, to the opposite bank, whence prudently, coupled with some doubts as to the possibility of discharging a wet gun, induced me to leave Ursula Major to his log boring while I made the best of my way back to camp."
